

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY WILL ADD BUILDING

To Start Work Immediately on Structure for Extending Patriotic Teachings

MAY BECOME MEMORIAL

Trustees of Temple University announced today that they will proceed at once with the construction of a large additional building adapted to the needs of the institution.

Specifications for the structure, which will be situated in Broad street, between Berks and Montgomery avenue, have already been drawn up.

Consideration is being given to a suggestion from the alumni that it be dedicated as a memorial to Pennsylvanian soldiers in the world war. The building is planned for use in the extension of patriotic education.

President Conwell is in favor of the memorial idea, as the institution has been making special efforts to provide for the education of the common soldier. The officers' training school, backed by the government in connection with the Temple University, is certain to be a permanent institution and be largely patronized. At the last meeting of the government officials it was proposed and favored by all to ask the government to make the university officers' training school an adjunct of West Point and the university asked the government to take the initial step by giving all graduates of the Temple University officers' training school clear admission to West Point without examination.

It has also been proposed by officials at the army yard that Temple University establish its courses of instruction at the navy yard. It is possible, under the Temple University plan, to give each soldier and sailor while in the government service such thorough instruction that each will be able to pass examinations for a college or university degree at any of the great universities.

Many of the schools under the Y. M. C. A. in France are conducted by graduates of the Temple University, and Doctor Conwell's book, "How a Soldier May Succeed After the War," opened up a very large correspondence with the soldiers in Europe, showing that there is an ambition and a need among them to give them practical and useful study during their many hours of loneliness, especially in times of peace.

BETTER HOUSING DRIVE
Churchwomen to Complete Plans at Trinity Parish House Meeting

Members of the Churchwomen's Association of the Protestant Episcopal Church will meet tomorrow at the Holy Trinity Parish House for the purpose of prosecuting a vigorous campaign in the interest of proper housing facilities for all who need them in Philadelphia.

The association comprises members of all recognized religious denominations, and has been working with the Philadelphia Housing Association for some time, receiving instruction and information from the inspectors of the housing association.

Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, president of the Churchwomen's Association, said last night that several prominent men and women would address the meeting, which is expected to be productive of much good.

FILIPINOS DENIED HALL
Convention Request Not Representative, War Department States

The request of Jose A. Maunedo, Jr., and Zarcias Gomez, chairman and executive secretary of the committee to promote Philippine independence, for the use of Independence Hall in which to hold a convention of Filipinos from all sections of this country, has been refused.

The request was made by Joseph C. Smith, secretary and brother of Mayor Thomas B. Smith, in the absence of the latter official, in the early part of the month. Mr. Smith communicated with the State Department, as to whether it would be proper to lend Independence Hall for the proposed convention.

The inquiry was transferred to the War Department, and yesterday Secretary Joseph Smith received an answer from that department stating that "the committee referred to has no official standing since it does not represent the Philippine people or any part thereof."

Camden Child Hurt by Auto
Edward Griffins, three years old, Twenty-third and Cooper streets, Camden, was injured this morning when he was struck by an automobile driven by Sidney Wertheimer, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The child was crossing the street at Twenty-third and Federal streets. He was taken to the Cooper Hospital.

Here's a Little Bit O' Alright!
"Charlie, old dear, I see your 'back in civies and shod like a bally swanker. But dash me if I see how you can afford to have your boots sent from Lannum."
"Can't, old thing. But I've found a clever Yankee chap who sells the real 'billy' styles—and for ten, bob less than you'd pay on the other side."
"Billets' by jove, but how can he do it?"
"Low overhead, short profits, big turnover, inexpensive locations," explained.

Sergeant Major Frank M. Frenk, Fifty-fifth Infantry, is to be one of those to return with the Twenty-eighth Division, which is scheduled to arrive in Philadelphia soon. He wears a Croix de Guerre, awarded to him for extreme heroism displayed during the battle of the Argonne Forest.

Sergeant Major Frenk was severely gassed on September 28, when his division came up from the rear to relieve the Seventy-ninth, in the Argonne sector. He recovered after a short time in a hospital.

He was formerly a member of the National Guards of Pennsylvania, and saw service during the Mexican campaign in 1916. His parents live at 109 North Millick street.

"OWN HOME" EXHIBIT CROWDS ARMORY

200,000 Potential Builders Expected at Real Estate Board's Showing

TO CONTINUE ALL WEEK

The "Own-Your-Home" exposition, directed by the Philadelphia Real Estate Board, opened last night in the First Regiment Armory, Broad and Callowhill streets.

During the evening thousands of dollars' worth of Victory Bonds were sold at the booth of the Victory Loan committee of the board in charge of Robert J. Nash, chairman.

No exposition in recent years has offered a greater variety of exhibits than that of the "Own-Your-Home" show. More than 200 booths have been equipped, and scores of them beautifully decorated. Everything pertaining to the purchase of land, the building of houses and the furnishing of homes is on view.

Building materials and home furnishings worth fortunes have been installed. Here and there in the great hall are the latest designs in heaters and ranges, paints and lumber, labor-saving appliances, millwork, bricks, tiles, publications devoted to building and home-making, and, in fact, it is difficult to imagine the absence of any article common to pleasant home life in this wonderful collection.

The first night's throng of visitors included a great gathering of builders, real estate owners and home-seekers from other cities, all of whom warmly praised the delights and educational advantages provided by the exposition.

The exposition will be opened from noon until 11 o'clock at night every day this week, and it is expected that 200,000 visitors will attend before the Saturday night closing.

The week of the exposition coincides with the final week of the "Own Your Home" campaign, which has been conducted by a committee composed of some of the foremost men in the city and state. These men are affiliated not only with the Real Estate Board, but also the Builders' Exchange, the Philadelphia Operative Builders, the North Philadelphia Realty Board and kindred organizations.

Start New Home Service Class
A new term in the class for home service training began yesterday at the Pennsylvania School for Social Service, under the home service department of the Red Cross, with about twenty members enrolled. The course lasts six weeks. The home service department takes care of the families of service men, and also supplements the work of the government agencies, such as bureau of war risk insurance, the federal board of vocational training and the United States employment service.

"Unrequited Salesmanship"
When you buy an automobile, an electric launch or a new Swiss Brown, you become not only an owner but an advocate.
Your judgment leads not only to investment, but to partisanship, for a time. You act as an "unrequited salesman" in the words of a well-known advertising man.
One of the chief accomplishments of advertising is to keep active the enthusiasm of the owner-advocate and to furnish perhaps a brief for his continued special pleading.
Obviously a man cannot brag conveniently of the nameless or the brandless.
Advertising makes it easier for the user to point with pride and in stimulating unrequited salesmanship adds seven-league boots to any product.
